

I'll Fly Away ©Kenny Selcer 8/31/12

I walked in to the waters of the river today.
Looking for a way to cool myself down.
I held my head under as long as I could take,
until I felt my chest burning, and I felt my heart ache.

The sky was so blue and everything was so still.
I heard no birds, no breeze, no nothing but my thoughts of you.
Then I held my head high as long as I could and suddenly I broke free, then I understood.

I want the wind to blow all my blues away.
I want the light to make colors out of gray.
I want to ride my thoughts clear up to the sky,
turning dark into the day, then I'll fly away....

I remember the last time that I saw you.
I heard you, I heard your sweet voice.
You said you never wanted to hurt me.
but you never, you never really had any choice.

I want the wind to blow all my blues away.
I want the light to make colors out of gray.
I want to ride my thoughts clear up to the sky,
turning dark into the day, then I'll sail away, then I'll fly away....

- instrumental -

I want the wind to blow all my blues away.
I want the light to make colors out of gray.
I want to ride my thoughts clear up to the sky,
turning dark into the day, then I'll fly away....

I know that every day has battles to be fought.
There can be lessons to be learned and lessons to be taught.
I know that there is always more than we can see.
Things sometimes better, sometimes worse, sometimes even harmony.

I want the wind to blow all my blues away.
I want the light to make colors out of gray.
I want to ride my thoughts clear up to the sky,
turning dark into the day, then I'll sail away, then I'll fly away,
then I'll sail away, then I'll fly away.